Mrs. Worthington came. with him, looking as pleasant as if she were visiting some grand lady in a handsome drawingroom. She had to have Alices rocking-chair, and Nat gave Mr. Hope his seat, and there they sat as comfortably and as much at home, to all appearance, as if there had been a Brussels carpet on the floor, and steel bars to the grate. Tom, said Mr. Hope, after a while, can you tell us now what youve been doing all this time Oh no! answered Tom; Im a wicked boy, and a thief, and all of you are so good! and he buried his face in his hands, and wept very bitterly. Tom, said Mr. Hope, in a voice that was full of comfort, do you remember that verse I gave you to learn in your Bible Ay, answered Tom, with a great sob, it...
